Every year, we are awed and inspired by the passion, commitment, and dedication that our Sage Award Nominees and Recipients have for their areas of interest and action. This year, we asked the Recipients - what inspires you?

Dr. Garnet Cummings

Sage Award Recipient 2016 – Health & Wellness

I am the Executive Director of the Brain Care Centre. The BCC is a community based non-for-profit organization that is a source of hope for those impacted by brain injury from all causes such as; stroke, trauma and cancer. Our programs provide a compassionate continuum of brain care from prevention to reintegration into the community. BCC provides services that include client advocacy, computer relearning, and service coordination for adults with an acquired brain injury. You will be interested in knowing that the BCC is poised to offer a well-researched comprehensive concussion program to persons referred to us by a qualified health care provider. At present we are not funded to launch this vital program as virtually no other program exists in the city. I am passionate about the leadership role that I have for this organization because I believe that as our visions states, we prepare people with an acquired brain injury to Defy Limitations and to be the best they can be.
